SEA STORIES (PAPERBACK)

Dog Ear Publishing, United States, 2013. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . SEA STORIES is a collection of short stories written in poetic form. This gives them a descriptive and compelling advantage in the mind s eye while at the same time allowing the reader, with limited time available, to escape into the world of fiction. Original poems of the sea are included for relief and to provide further illumination to the landlubber who may not understand those who sail the oceans of this world on their behalf. These stories are written with the authority, spirit, humor and love of the sea that only a sailor or one who is a sailor at heart would fully appreciate. More than just tales of the sea, they are the soul of the sea with the violence of storms, the horror of ghosts, the blood of wars, and the loyalty to country in the timeless tradition of sailors of the US Navy. Robert E. Browne is a retired Chief petty officer of the United States Navy who served his country well for two decades in time of peace and war. He and his wife, Adelita live in Winfield Missouri, and have three children who now have families of their own. Numerous life and death experiences in the military serve the Chief well as a writer by making him more aware of his mortality while sharpening the perception so evident in his literary works. Bob believes that for a poem or story to be successful, it must stir the emotions within. He has won numerous literary awards for his stories, but his goal before retiring to that great dry dock in the sky is to publish a book of his many works.
