Widowed plantation owner Emaline McDaniels has struggled to hold on to her late husbands dreams. Despite the responsibilities resting on her slender shoulders, she will not let anyone wrest away what's left of her way of life particularly a Yankee officer who wants to set up winter camp on her land. With a defiance born of desperation, she defends her home as though it were the child she never had and no mother gives up her child without a fight. Despite the brazen wisp of a woman pointing a gun at his head, Colonel Reece Cutteridge has his orders. Requisition Shapinsay and its valuable livestock for his regiments use, and pay her with Union vouchers. He never expected her fierce determination, then her concern for his wounded, to upend his heart and possibly his career. As the armies go dormant for the winter, battle lines are drawn inside the mansion. Yet just as their clash of wills shifts to forbidden passion, the tides of war sweep Reece away. And now their most desperate battle is to survive the war with their lives and their love intact. Warning: This novel contains complex emotions and battlefield gallantry wrapped around the inherent risks of falling in love with ones enemy. This item ships from multiple locations.
